

Herman Prakke

Teambuilding, coaching and supporting personal development, applying 20 years of international management experience as well as a genuine interest in the right side of the human brain.

Herman holds an MSc of the University of Amsterdam (cum laude) and has been building businesses in Europe, China, India and Brazil.

Before co-founding OneConsultancyGroup, he served as Senior Program Director at Baak Change, a business unit of De Baak Management Center of VNO-NCW in the Netherlands. Besides, Herman is also associated, as Executive Fellow, with the Rotterdam School of Management / Erasmus.

Prior to that, he was Business Director at DSM White Biotechnology, having the responsibility to develop global leadership positions in the biofuels- and biochemicals arenas.

As a result of his 20 years working in industry, Herman has experienced that the Human Side of Enterprise is a critical factor in the success or failure of organizations. This experience has led to his decision to focus on team building, coaching and personal development. He does so using in-depth knowledge about, and experience in, organisational development and group dynamics in complex change programs.

He brings seasoned understanding of intercultural co-operation, both in the sense of national as well as corporate cultures.

He likes to challenge, continuously searching for new angles to approach any topic and gets his energy from interacting with people. Humour and compassion are his drivers.
