

Amos Yin

Senior Consultant, Executive Coach

Amos is a senior consultant and executive coach of IOC. After retired as an executive since 2011, Amos Yin is committed to devote his rich management experience to business consulting, training to help enterprises to establish a healthy organization. Currently Amos focuses on organizational development (OD), leadership/teamwork training and executive coaching.

Amos worked for Dell Computer from 1992 to 2002, built up and led the Development Center in Taiwan. He successfully migrated the notebook computer's development function from the Headquarter (Austin, Texas) to Taiwan : shorten the development cycles of 25% and successfully supported Taiwan's notebook computer industry, improve development, production and quality ability, at the same time, Reduce Dell Notebook's cost and improve the quality.

2003 to 2009 Amos worked for a Taiwan-founded company as the GM for China (Nanjing and Shanghai), managed 18,000 employees and 5B USD production value's Operation Center. Doubling Nanjing's operation efficiency within 8 months. Within 10 months, turnaround Shanghai center's profit to 20M RMB from 50M RMB loss per month, and promoted the ranking by the only customer Nokia from the last one into No. 1 among Nokia's 9 vendors.

Amos has completed a NTL-based Competencies of OD (Organization Development) certification course (COD) and is studying Gestalt OSD (Organization System Development) program. Amos passed ICF PCC oral test. Trainer's certification including: Erickson TASC module one and Team Coaching; Leadership challenge; FDT(Five Dysfunctional Team), Dale Carnegie associate; DISC; Leader As Coach. Amos also completed the Executive Coaching and supervision and System Team Coaching courses by UK Executive Coaching Academy.

Amos has serviced customers including: China Telecom; IATA, Safilo, RHI, Foxconn, Danone, Volkswagen, Pan Asia Technical Automotive Center Co. Ltd., Holley etc.