

Marianne Tracy is a management consulting professional and project consultant. She works internationally with pharmaceutical, manufacturing, media and healthcare industries, providing leadership, strategy, change management and business transformation solutions for organizational renewal and improvement. She consults as project team leader in change engagements and is skilled in building senior level relationships and commitment to change and transformation. She possesses particular expertise working in global environments and in development and organization wide transformation. Ms. Tracy has an excellent project execution track record and is a team player with excellent leadership, strong communication and analytical skills. Ms Tracy earned a MS in Organization Development from Pepperdine University, and her thesis topic is, "Strategy Implementation and the Role of the Leader." Her Dissertation is "Reflection, a tool with improved performance for executives and teams." Her interests are leadership, teams, and change management.